Product Description

Product Description:

The Storage Rack Roll Forming Machine is made to handle cold-rolled steel coils, ensuring durability and strength in the final product. The total power of the machine is 7.5kw, allowing for efficient and consistent production. The production speed of this machine is between 4-6m/min, making it highly productive and able to meet the demands of any storage rack production line.

One of the unique features of this Storage Rack Roll Forming Machine is its optional product design. This allows for customization and flexibility in the production process, making it possible to produce storage racks that meet specific requirements and needs. This feature also makes it possible to produce a variety of storage racks to meet the needs of different industries.

The Storage Rack Roll Forming Machine is a reliable and efficient machine that is built to produce high-quality storage racks. Its heavy-duty design and use of cold-rolled steel ensure that the final product is strong, durable, and able to withstand heavy loads. With its PLC system from Panasonic, Japan, this roll forming mill is built to ensure precision and accuracy in the production process.
